

We have known each other for years... but have we ever talked about...

Dear

Some of the most difficult emotional and financial challenges your loved ones will face will happen when you are no longer around. While many of us would rather undergo a root canal than talk about death, taking just a few hours with your family to discuss your final wishes and preparing for your end-of-life, could spare your loved ones the dual agony of coping with your loss while trying to pay and plan your funeral.

Ask your family how your death will affect them. Will it cause them financial strain? How will it affect their current lifestyles?

While you may be thinking you don't need this type of coverage, consider these facts:

The median cost of a funeral, including vault, in 2012 was $8,343
(according to National Funeral Directors Association)

Additional costs such as the cemetery plot (which varies by location), monument, flowers, obituary or other cash expenses, could push the total well over $10,000

Surprised? How will your loved ones be able to help pay your funeral expenses and household expenditures? What about credit cards, medical bills, unpaid taxes, or any other expenses you may leave behind? What you should know is that Social Security will only pay $255 for funeral and other expenses, and you must still qualify. This is not enough to cover these mounting costs.

Contact me for more information on how to get started.
We can show you how life insurance can help you address your unique needs and budget.

Don't gamble with your loved ones' financial security.

Contact us today, so you won't have to worry about your family's tomorrow.

Life insurance
is not for you.
It's for your family.

For your convenience,
I have attached some product information...
Guaranteed Acceptance Plans Also Available!